

Your Free IT Guy Cheat Sheet

Keep this by your computer. — Bryan, BrainRoad

Everyday problems ChatGPT can help with

With computer access set up, ChatGPT can use apps you allow. Describe the problem, ask before important changes, and check the result. A fix is not guaranteed.

Printer says “offline”	It can check printer settings and look for connection problems.
The sound is gone	It can check which speaker your computer is using.
Computer is crawling	It can look for causes. Ask it before removing files or apps.
Wi-Fi keeps dropping	It can look into why the computer loses Wi-Fi.
Can’t find a download	It can search your downloads and open the folder.
A scary pop-up	It can help you examine it. Don’t rely on AI alone to decide it’s safe.

Scam pop-up asking you to call? Stop.

- Don’t call. Don’t click anything in the box, not even the X.
- Close the browser. If it won’t close, use Task Manager (Windows) or Force Quit (Mac).
- Already gave access or paid? Contact your bank using a trusted number and get help securing your accounts. Report it at ReportFraud.ftc.gov.

Call a real person when

- It’s clicking, grinding, wet or dropped, and you have files you can’t lose.
- You’ve tried for a while and you’re still stuck. That’s okay. (573) 687-9015.

Want ChatGPT to do the clicking for you?

- The quick setup most people never find, every click shown.
- The sentence that gets it to fix things instead of handing you steps.
- Sending it jobs from your phone.

Turn ChatGPT into your personal IT guy: $27 once, 30-day money-back guarantee. brainroad.com/ai-it-guy. Rather have me set it up for you? Call (573) 687-9015.

Needs Windows or Mac and a paid ChatGPT plan (Plus is $20 a month, from OpenAI). Availability varies.